A DISASTROUS RUNAWAY.

Sunday last about 11 o'clock John George hooked a heavy sorrel team owned by Mr. Willard to a common buggy and drove to the residence of Henry Bragg on east Sherman street with the intention of taking Miss Ann Wheeler out riding. The horses were young and frisky, and as they refused to stand while George helped the lady in he got in the buggy first. Before she could get in, however, the horses became unmanageable and started west at a terrific rate. The load was as nothing to them and it seems George was unable to even guide them in their mad career, for when they reached Military street they turned south, but were going so fast that they ran to the west pavement where the buggy was turned half over and George thrown turned half over and George thrown with great force against a large electric light pole and very dangerously hurt. He was at once picked up and tric light pole and very dangerously hurt. He was at once picked up and hurt. He was at once picked up and fixed by the state of the st taken into the Fox livery stable office and a physician sent for. The fright-ened team ran south on Military street until they came in contact with the buggy and team of E. Baker hitched in front of Ohlen's restaurant where they became so entangled that they they became so entangled that they could not go further. Baker's buggy was a complete wreck, every wheel of it being broken. None of the horses were much hurt, nor was the other buggy much damaged.

Upon examination it was found that George had struck the pole with his breast and stomach in almost a horizontal position and though no bones were broken he was very seriously bruised and hurt internally. He lay on a couch at the stable in a semi-conscious condition and with intense pain and restlessness watched by friends and physician until Monday when he was removed to the home of D. B. Peake.

It was a very close call for George. Had his head struck the pole he would certainly have been killed. It was also very fortunate that the young lady was not in the buggy.

The First Step. Pe haps you are run down, can't eat, can't sleep, can't think, can't do anything to your satisfaction, and you wonder what ails you. You should heed the warning, you are taking the first step into nervous prostration. You need a nerve tone and in Electric Bitters you will find the exact remedy for restoring your nervous system to its normal, healthy condition. Surprising results follow the use of this great nerve tonic and alterative. Your appetite returns, good digestion is restored and the liver and kidneys resume healthy action, Try a hottle. It has been figured out that from a bushel of corn the distiller gets four gallons of whiskey which retails at $16. The government gets $3.70; the farmer who raised the corn gets 40 cents; the railroad gets $1; the manufacturer gets $4, the retailer gets $7 and the consumer gets drunk.
